

Haley Gubbins
Teacher of the Deaf
M.S. Special Education, Illinois State University
B.S. Deaf Education, Illinois State University

Haley joined the Desert Voices team in August of 2022, after working in a preschool listening and spoken language program in Chicago, IL for 4 years. She recently completed her Masters of Science in Special Education. Haley's passion is for students with hearing loss who have varying abilities and diagnoses and strives to create a classroom where all students can learn to listen, talk, and to thrive.

Haley just recently moved from Illinois, where she grew up. She completed her student teaching placement at Desert Voices in 2017, and always had a goal to move back to the southwest. She is enjoying getting to know more about Arizona, exploring new places, and soaking up winters with no snow! When Haley isn't working, she enjoys spending time with her siblings, crafting all the things for her apartment and classroom, and spending time with her dog, Tiki, and cat, Birdie. She is excited to travel more now that she is closer to so many cool places!
